

---

The image shows a page of ten blank musical staves. Each staff is composed of five horizontal lines, spaced evenly. The staves are arranged vertically, with a small gap between each one. At the top of the page, there is a single horizontal line that spans the width of the page, positioned above the first staff.